Awesome! However, when you perform the inversion and update the value of the expanded row, the grid row is updated, but the expanded row is immediately compressed. "Yes": "No": } kendo ui nested grid pattern if anything Reviewed by Anil Singh on 2:25 Rating: 5 A customer recently asked something I didn't know a kendo UI grid could do. //JavaScript sample code function checkIsDefaultAccount (isDefault) { return (isDefault == true ? template: "#if (ErrorDesc==null) {# #: DeviceLabel #} else {# #: DeviceLabel #} /other( # #: DeviceText #) #} //OR//kendo ui grid column if else @ (Html.Kendo().Grid().Name("Grid").Columns(column => { column.Bound(x => x.IsDefault).Title("Is default).ClientTemplate("#=checkIsDefaultAccount(isDefault)#"); } ) //..... The idea was that users could use whatever suited their needs or preferences, then save all changes to the grid as usual in a batch.I got mostly working with this code, which is using this HTML and JavaScript: div id="myGrid"> Test number Test string for="testDate" class="d-block">test date $(document).ready() => { const testData = [ { testNumber: 123, test-string: "apple", "apple", New Date (2020, 10, 14) }, { testNumber: 456, TestString: "Pear", TestDate: New Date (2020, 10, 15) }, { testNumber: 789, TestString: "Plum", Texted: New Date (2020, 10, 16) } ], $ (" # MyGrid"). KendoGrid ( { DataSource: { Data: TestData, Schema: { Model: { Fields: { TestNumber: { Type: "Number" }, TestString: { Type: "String" }, TextDate: { Type: "Date" } } } } }, columns: [ { field: "TestNumber", Title: "Test number" }, { field: "TestString", Title: "Test String" }, { field: "TestDate", Title: "Test date ", Format: " {0: d }" }, editable: true, detailtemplate: kendo.template( $ (" # mydetailtemplate " ). HTML ( ), DetailInit: Event => Kendo. Bind (event.Detagagliarow, Event.data); } ) ; } ; This line is the key to having the row of the grid and the expanded view Share the same View Model: DetailInit: Event => Kendo.bind (Event.Detagagliarow, Event.Data) Now when changing a value in the grid line, Update immediately in the expanded line. But they also wanted different features of the user interface in the expanded / detailed view that makes no sense in a row of grid (for example, graphs, hyperlinks, buttons to calculate things, etc.). etc.).
